Re: Calculation of Value – Crown C Supply Company, Inc.

Dear Mr. Danna:

You have engaged us to conduct a calculation engagement and prepare a calculation report to provide you with a calculated value of a 77.18% ownership interest in Crown C Supply Company, Inc. (the "Company") on a controlling, non-marketable basis as of October 1, 2013 (the "Calculation Date"), for federal estate tax purposes.

The calculated value is considered as a cash or cash equivalent value. The calculated value and our calculation report are to be used only as of the Calculation Date and are not valid as of any other date.

We have performed a calculation engagement and present our calculation report in conformity with the Statement on Standards for Valuation Services No. 1 ("SSVS") of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("AICPA"). SSVS defines a calculation engagement as "An engagement to estimate value wherein the valuation analyst and the client agree on the specific valuation approaches and valuation methods that the valuation analyst will use and the extent of valuation procedures the valuation analyst will perform to estimate the value of a subject interest. A calculation engagement generally does not include all of the valuation procedures required for a valuation engagement. If a valuation engagement had been performed, the results might have been different. The valuation analyst expresses the results of the calculation engagement as a calculated value, which may be either a single amount or a range."

SSVS addresses a calculation report as follows: "This type of report should be used only to communicate the results of a calculation engagement (calculated value); it should not be used to communicate the results of a valuation engagement (conclusion of value)."

This calculation engagement, and resulting calculated value and calculation report, was conducted solely for federal estate tax purposes, and the resulting calculated value and calculation report should not be used for any other purpose or by any other party for any purpose without our express written consent. Specifically, this calculation report should not be used as a fairness opinion, and in fact is not a fairness opinion, regarding any planned or possible sale of the Company.

The standard of value used in this calculation engagement is fair market value, defined in Treasury Regulations §20.2031-1(b) and §25.2512-1, and restated in Revenue Ruling 59-60, as "the price at which the property would change hands between a willing buyer and a willing seller when the former is not under any compulsion to buy and the latter is not under any compulsion to sell, both parties having reasonable knowledge of relevant facts." Revenue Ruling 59-60 also defines the willing buyer and seller as hypothetical as follows: "Court decisions frequently state in addition that the hypothetical buyer and seller are assumed to be able, as well as willing, to trade and to be well informed about the property and concerning the market for such property." Furthermore, fair market value assumes that the price is transacted in cash or cash equivalents. Revenue Ruling 59-60, while used in tax valuations, is also used in many non-tax valuations.

Fair market value is also defined in a similar way in the International Glossary of Business Valuation Terms as "the price, expressed in terms of cash equivalents, at which property would change hands between a hypothetical willing and able buyer and a hypothetical willing and able seller, acting at arm's length in an open and unrestricted market, when neither is under compulsion to buy or sell and when both have reasonable knowledge of the relevant facts."

The premise of value is going concern which means the Company is expected to continue to operate into the future. The liquidation premise of value was considered and rejected as not applicable, as the going-concern value generally results in a higher value for the interest than the liquidation value, whether orderly or fixed.

We have no obligation to update the report or restate our calculated value for information that comes to our attention after the date of the report. However, we reserve the right to recall the report and/or restate our calculated value if such information comes to our attention.

The approaches and methodologies used in this calculation engagement did not comprise an examination or any attest service in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, the objective of which is an expression of an opinion regarding the fair presentation of financial statements or other financial information, whether historical or prospective, presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles or auditing standards. We express no opinion and accept no responsibility for the accuracy and completeness of the financial information (audited, reviewed, compiled, internal, prospective or tax returns), or other data provided to us by others, and we have not verified such information unless specifically stated in this report. We assume that the financial and other information provided to us is accurate and complete, and we have relied upon this information in performing our calculation.

Description of the Scope of Work Performed and Calculation Procedures

As agreed upon with the client, we utilized the income approach to arrive at the calculated value of the Company. Specifically, we agreed to utilize the income approach – capitalized cash flow method.

In performing our work, we were provided with and have relied upon the following documents:

- Reviewed financial statements for the year ended September 30, 2014 issued by Croghan & Croghan P.C.;

We have performed a calculation engagement, as that term is defined in SSVS. The estimate of value that results from a calculation engagement is expressed as a calculated value. In a calculation engagement, the valuation analyst and the client agree on the specific valuation approaches and valuation methods the valuation analyst will use and the extent of valuation procedures the valuation analyst will perform to estimate the value of the subject interest. A calculation engagement does not include all of the procedures required for a valuation engagement, as that term is defined in SSVS. Had a valuation engagement been performed, the results might have been different.

This calculated value is subject to the Statement of Assumptions and Limiting Conditions found in Appendix A and to the Valuation Analyst's Representation found in Appendix B of this calculation report. We have no obligation to update this calculation report or our calculated value for information that comes to our attention after the date of the report.

Income Approach – Capitalized Cash Flow Method

There are two commonly used methods under the income approach: the discounted cash flow method and the capitalized cash flow method. The discounted cash flow method requires projecting an expected economic benefit stream into the future and discounting it back to a present value using a discount rate or required rate of return. This present value discount rate is the cost of capital, that is, the rate of return an investor would require to compensate for the risk associated with an investment in the Company. The capitalized cash flow method determines a value by applying a capitalization rate to economic income for a single period, based on historical earnings and growth.

We utilized the capitalized cash flow method to value the Company due to the fact the Company does not prepare projections. We capitalized the Company's ongoing, sustainable debt free cash flow using an 11.45% capitalization rate, developed under a weighted average cost of capital method (see Exhibit 5). Once we determined the fair market value of the Company's invested capital, we then subtracted the interest bearing debt. Next, we applied a 15% valuation adjustment for lack of marketability. Finally, we added back non-operating assets to arrive at the fair market value of the Company's equity on a controlling, non-marketable basis. We then multiplied by the ownership interest being valued in order to arrive at the fair market value of a 77.18% ownership interest on a controlling, non-marketable basis as of the Calculation Date (see Exhibit 6).

Calculated Value Conclusion

Based on our calculation as presented in Exhibit 6, which was based on procedures agreed upon as referred to above, and the facts and circumstances as of the Calculation Date, it is our opinion that the calculated value of a 77.18% ownership interest in the Company as of October 1, 2013 on a controlling, non-marketable basis, is:

TWO MILLION NINE HUNDRED EIGHTY TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS

$2,982,000

This report is not to be used with, circulated, quoted or otherwise referred to in whole or in part for any other purpose, or to any other party for any purpose, without our express written consent.
